Editorial Comments.

The strain of being kept clean is making the interned Mexicans sore on the whole United States.

Judge James Breathitt denies that he is a candidate for U. S. Senator. He says he is out of politics.

A famous old church at Nuess, Germany, 700 years old, was partially destroyed last week by fire.

Walter Johnson, the Washington baseball club's pitcher, has had his right arm insured for $100,000.

Of course Owsley Stanley has denounced the report that he was to withdraw as a lie. It originated among his enemies.

Farmers near Mayfield are giving the town people half of the turnip greens picked on the shares. The real hustling is for the eggs and jowl.

About $12,000 of the money stolen from the Gallatin Bank has been found. It was concealed in an office where one of the men arrested was employed.

Brig.-Gen. Wm. C. Gorgas, who conducted a three-months investigation into sanitary conditions in the mining camps of the Rand, South Africa, has returned.

Marie Scott, a negro woman, who, Sunday night, killed Lerviel Peace, a young white man, by driving a knife into his heart, was taken out of the Wagoner, Oklahoma, jail and hanged to a telephone pole.

Miss Elenora Broyles, aged 17, assistant cashier in an office in a suburb of Louisville, was bound and gagged by a bandit, who entered the office while the girl was alone, and robbed the cash drawer of $300.

Lieut. Lankmeyer, a German army aviator, was killed and Lieut. Ruchi, whom he carried as a passenger, was seriously injured Thursday in an aeroplane accident. Their propeller broke while they were flying at a low altitude.

Chancellors Heiskell and Fentrees, of Memphis, have held the Tennessee nuisance law to be valid. Several hundred saloonists were in the courtroom when the decision was announced and keen disappointment was evinced by them.

An appeal for the destitute, maimed and suffering people in Bulgaria, as a result of the recent wars in the Balkan peninsula, has been made by Miss Ellen M. Stone. She will be remembered as the missionary who was once captured by bandits, in the section referred to.

After preaching 25 years, the Rev. Nathaniel A. Marriott, of New Bedford, Mass., has laid aside his clerical garb to don a white apron and manage a restaurant. He gives as a reason that his health has been impaired by the mental strain and that he can make more money keeping a restaurant.

The Alumni Association of the State University has completed its retaliatory "probe" of the legislature which investigated the University's management. The Association takes a charitable view of the Legislature and holds that it was "ignorant of the real meaning" and "composed of men but slightly acquainted, if at all, with the organization, aims or work of the University."

To Leave For Birmingham, Ala., Next Week.

T. L. Brodie has retired from the firm of Waller & Brodie and will leave in a few days for Birmingham, Ala. Mr. Brodie was the architect in charge of the Virginia Park Pavilion and the firm of which he was a member designed the Carnegie Library building now under construction.

Mr. John T. Waller will continue business in the present offices with a corps of competent assistants.

PLANS FOR BANQUET

Athenaeum Holds An Unusually Interesting Meeting Thursday Night.

IRA L. SMITH IS PRESIDENT.

Two Most Excellent Literary Papers Heard By The Society.

The regular meeting of the Atheneum was held at Hotel Latham Thursday night with a program of unusual interest. There were two papers of literary excellence seldom equaled by the society.

W. H. Linton discussed "Holmes and the Autocrat," giving a charming sketch of Oliver Wendell Holmes and his literary career.

J. W. Downer followed with "Robert Louis Stevenson," his paper being committed to memory and really a lecture of one hour in Mr. Downer's very best style. His papers are always rare gems of their kind, and this was one of his best. Both papers were discussed at length.

The committee on arrangements reported that Mr. Noe could not offer an earlier hour for the May banquet than 9 o'clock and the committee was instructed to arrange for hours from 8:30 to 12, urging Mr. Noe to conform to these hours and if this failed to negotiate for the use of the Elks Home.

The program committee reported that the speakers for the banquet would be J. T. Hanberry, L. E. Foster, H. D. Smith, John F. Bible and Chas. M. Meacham.

The annual election of officers was held. Vice President Ira L. Smith was elected President and will be Toastmaster at the open session, S. Y. Trimble was elected Vice President and H. W. Linton was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer.

Those present were W. T. Tandy, Geo. E. Gary, P. B. Brooks, H. D. Smith, Austin Bell, T. C. Underwood, J. W. Downer, H. W. Linton, John Stites, S. Y. Trimble, J. C. Duffy, W. T. Fowler, L. E. Foster, L. H. Davis, A. H. Eckles, Jno. F. Bible, T. W. Blakey, R. F. McDaniel, Ira L. Smith, T. J. McReynolds and Chas. M. Meacham.

PROF. BENTLEY IS ELECTED

Chosen Superintendent of Paducah City Schools by Board of Education.

Paducah, Ky., April 2.—At a meeting of the board of education Prof. J. H. Bentley, principal of the Henderson Barrett Manual Training High school was elected superintendent of the Paducah city schools. Prof. Bentley defeated a large field of applicants and received almost the unanimous vote of the board.

Miss Brazelton was elected principal of the high school. All other principals were re-elected, with the exception of Prof. W. H. Sugg and Prof. J. A. Carnagey, both of whom refused to stand for re-election.

Prof. Bentley will come to Paducah before school begins in September. He comes highly recommended.

For three years he has served as principal of the Henderson high school, and through his efforts brought the school to high standing among high schools of the state.

Louisville Loses.

A Washington dispatch states that Louisville and Cincinnati will fail in their efforts to become reserve cities under the new currency law and that Cleveland and St. Louis will both be chosen.

FIFTY DEAD OF COLD

Disaster at Sea And Worst Not Yet Told—Caught In Blizzard.

SOUTHERN CROSS WAS LOST.

Caught In The Ice Off The Coast of Newfoundland With a Crew of 170 Men.

St. Johns, Nfd., April 3.—Disaster has overtaken the sealing steamer Southern Cross and her crew of 170 men.

Fifty of the men have died from exposure in a furious blizzard and others are dying.

The steamer Newfoundland arrived here today with some survivors of the crew of the Southern Cross which was caught in the ice while returning from the sealing grounds.

Her crew were adrift on ice floes for forty-eight hours, suffering terribly.

Many of them are still missing and other vessels are searching for them.

Of those brought in by the Newfoundland fifty were either dead or dying when the ship reached port.

The meeting will continue through next Wednesday.

The regular meeting of the Methodist church has steadily increased in interest and power. Mr. Robert Lear is proving himself a great leader of song. There have been very helpful messages delivered by neighbor ministers. Rev. Virgil Elgin will preach this afternoon at three o'clock.

There will be the usual services tomorrow and at three o'clock Rev.

H. D. Smith, pastor of the Christian church, will speak to a mass meeting of men and boys. Every man and boy in the county is invited to this service. There will be singing by a men's quartette, the choir and congregation.

The next step taken in the legal battle seeking to force the Christian-Todd Telephone company to buy a franchise under which to operate in this county outside of incorporated towns will be taken in a special sitting of the circuit court here Monday. The regular term of circuit court will adjourn to-day, but Judge Hanberry will hear the telephone matter on a demurrer on Monday.

The telephone company refused to buy the franchise recently offered for sale, claiming that there were several provisions they could not stand, but chiefly that the rates were too low.

Following this the telephone company filed a petition praying for a mandamus making the fiscal court prepare and offer for sale a franchise with the terms and provisions which they claim is just and equitable.

The county has filed a demurrer to this petition and this is to be heard Monday.

The action is in reality a test of the question of just what power the fiscal courts of the state have in fixing rates and regulations for the operation of public service corporations in the counties. The court of appeals has already held in the test suit which went up from here that the counties have the right to sell franchises just the same as towns.

John C. Duffy, who was county attorney when action against the telephone company was started a year or more ago, has been employed to assist Ira D. Smith, the present county attorney, in handling the case.

Operated Upon.

Rev. C. H. Nash, former pastor of the First Baptist church, was operated upon for a diseased knee joint in Baltimore Wednesday.

BOTH LEGS CUT OFF

John Caldwell, Colored Teamster, Thrown under A Moving Car.

John Caldwell, known as "Governor," a colored teamster for Woolridge & Co., had both his legs cut off below the knee yesterday afternoon at 2:30, at the I. C. depot. He was handling a piece of timber, standing on a flat car, when another car backed up against it, the jar throwing him between the cars, in front of the wheels of the moving car. His legs were crushed and holding to an iron bar he was dragged 15 or 20 feet under the car.

Young Terrazas is said to have been primarily aided in his escape by a sum, agreed upon in El Paso between himself and the family of the prisoner, with a man who is reported to have arranged for the intoxication of the custodians of Terrazas in Chihuahua.

FANCY PRICE

Realized By G. L. Dulin For His Association Tobacco.

Mr. G. L. Dulin, of Laytonville, sold his tobacco crop of 3500 pounds through the Planters Protective Association last week at $16.50, a price almost double what he realized last year, when he sold for $8.75. Mr. Dulin prized his crop with one of the prizing houses in this city and is highly pleased with the prices realized.

He says one of his neighbors also sold a hogshead at the same price he did.

ST. LOUIS NEAREST US.

BIG FIGHT OPENS UP.

Special Term of Circuit Court To Be Held For Purpose.

Washingon, April 3.—After three months of consideration, the reserve bank organization committee tonight announced that it had divided the continental United States into twelve banking districts and selected twelve cities for federal reserve banks under the new currency law.

The cities selected are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, San Francisco.

T. P. A. Tonight.

A meeting of Post J., T. P. A. will be held at the Avon this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Business of importance to be transacted.

F. H. MASON, Sect.

Brief mention of the death of Mrs. Bettie Campbell Moore was made in the last issue of the Kentuckian. She died at the home of her son, Gus Moore, in Houston, Texas, Tuesday night. She had been in Texas since last December, visiting her sons, James, at Aransas Pass, and Gus, at Houston. Mrs. Moore was a daughter of the late Ben. S. Campbell, and the widow of the late Jas. C. Moore. She is survived by four sons and one daughter, Jas. C., Ben. C., Gus H., and Milton G. Moore and Miss Mary Moore. She was a sister of Capt. Ned Campbell, of Henderson, and Mrs. Milton Gant, Sr., of Owensboro, and a cousin of Gabe L. Campbell, of this city.

She was 64 years of age and was

WHAT BUTLER SAID

It Created Trouble for the Gracious Founder of the 18th Society.

By THEODORE FLATAU.

The marchioness of Bultagate started the society. She gave it its name: The Junior Association for the Protection of Animal Pets.

As she proudly and rightly said to fluffy-haired, fluffy-minded little Mrs. Pinkhampton, as they walked upstairs to join the first meeting of the committee, in the marchioness' drawing-room: "This is my eighteenth society, dear!"

"How awfully clever of you!" answered Mrs. Pinkhampton admiringly.

"Um! My eighteenth! And I only started doing them about a year ago. It is rather good, isn't it?"

"I think you're frightfully clever! How on earth do you do it? I should worry myself to death with one."

"Ah! That is the first thing; never worry! You see, I am always president—the committee always meets here, and I always make an awful fuss and ask why no work has been done. Then they all look candid and truthful!"

"But does that seem sincere and—"

Lady Bultagate stopped abruptly upon the stairs.

"You do not seem to remember that I am animated by purely Christian motives . . ." She went on up the stairs again. "Sincere? Good heavens! In the case of this J. A. P. A. P.—aren't they adorable initials?—I'm not only sincere, but interested and"—she paused, opened the door, walked into the drawing room and cried—"and enthusiastic."

General Alderleigh—aged eighty-four—bowed and said:

"Yah yah! . . . Eh, eh?"

"Hear, hear!" echoed Mrs. General—younger by four years.

"How do you do? Everyone here?" said Lady Bultagate. "Now, supposing we begin work—earnestly and with enthusiasm."

"Yah, yah!" remarked the general. "Enthusiasm—eh, eh?"

"Hang it!" said Lieut. Freddy Mastering, surreptitiously tangoing with little Miss Aphrodite Saunders in the alcove. "Come on!"

The bishop of Park lane cleared his throat, stood up and cleared his throat again.

"My dear friends, fellow committeemen, er—and ladies—"

"Once more into the breach," whispered "Dite" Saunders to Freddy.

"I—er—I beg your pardon?" asked the bishop.

"Yah, yah!" murmured the general. "Eh—er—that is, order, order!"

The bishop closed his eyes against any further interruption.

"We have met together in a good cause—a noble cause—the protection of pat animals—"

"Pat who?" asked Mrs. Pinkhampton, giggling.

"Pet animals—ahem!" said the bishop with dignity. "In giving a few opening words I have little to say, though we none of us must forget the—er—genius and enthusiasm of our gracious president, the marchioness. Ahem!" And he opened his eyes, bowed, and smiled at her.

Lady Bultagate did not appear to be pleased. She showed her teeth in what is called a smile, and took the opportunity to break into the bishop's oration.

"Thank you! That is very kind of you all! Now—"

"Ahem!" said the bishop warningly.

"Now," went on the president, "let us really get down to serious work."

"Yah, yah—eh?" said the general. The bishop got down heavily, sourly, sulkily.

"Quite!" answered Lady Bultagate. "First of all, I should like you to settle a most important point. The name! I propose the Junior Association for the Protection of Animal Pets!"

"Ahem! Why Junior?" asked the bishop, grumpily, almost pointedly.

"Yah, yah! Why Junior—eh? eh?"

"Well, I was really thinking of the initials—J. A. P. A. P. They're so sweet! Take the J. away and what have you?"

"A. P. A. P.," suggested Freddy brilliantly.

The president glared at him witheringly; the bishop smiled.

Mrs. General awoke out of her afternoon nap with a start.

"Too much time wasted on pets, in my opinion," she said abruptly. "Feed 'em, exercise 'em—that's good enough!"

"Ahem! I do not consider that one's personal attention and care is always necessary," the bishop put in. "A servant—"

"A servant!" cried Lady Bultagate, horror-stricken. "A servant would forget them, a servant would neglect them. If one left—"

The butler knocked at the door, and came toward the president.

"Go away, Treble. . . . If—"

"My lady!"

"Go away! Immediately! Do not disturb me! . . . If one left one's pets to a servant they would suffer from cold and hunger quite apart from whatever spiritual unhappiness they might have to endure. Possibly they would die from the terrible ill-treatment to which they were subjected. I do not think—"

"Yah, yah!" exclaimed the general sleepily.

"I do not believe that one should train animals to love one, and then cast them out, as it were."

"I was reading in the papers about the cruelty in training animals," began Mrs. General, "and to be quite candid and truthful—"

"Let me assure you," said Lady Bultagate warmly, "I never—"

"P-lease, milady!" gasped her maid, bursting into the room.

"P-lease—"

"Leave the room at once, Randall!

At once!"

"But please, my lady, I—"

"Pardon me! . . . Leave the room! How dare you! At once! Leave the . . . Ah! I was saying,

I never allow any of my servants to touch my pets: my canary, my parrot, my blue Persian, and my white West Highlander. Never under any circumstances. I feed them, I tend them, I keep them clean and happy and healthy. I—"

The door was thrown open, and with a screech of fear and excitement Wilma, the president's ten-year-old daughter, burst into the room.

"Mummie, mummie!" she cried.

"Quickly! There's a fire—"

With one accord the committee adjourned and scrambled and struggled and tumbled down the stairs.

Treble, the butler, met them in the hall.

"What is it? Where is it?" cried Lady Bultagate.

"The fire is hout, my lady," he began. "It occurred in cook's bedroom."

"Thank heavens! . . . There!" she cried, turning to the committee. "That is the sort of thing that might happen to your pets if you intrusted them to others. Now, wait a moment! . . . Treble! How did it occur?"

"Hit's rather a long istory, my lady. But if I might—"

"Tell us, Treble!"

"Yah, yah!" gasped the general, recovering his breath.

"Well, my lady, the truth is—I beg your ladyship's pardon!—the parrot wasn't very well, 'aving 'ad nothing for the last twenty-four hours, an' got angry an' got out of 'is cage. An' the canary being, as I might say, feeble and indisposed, could not defend 'isself, and was pecked to death. Hat that moment, my lady, the cat, bein' very 'ungry, 'e came along, ups with the parrot in 'is mouth, and was about to quench 'is pangs of starvation when the dorg—'e ain't been fed since Wednes'dy, my lady, and I dared not give 'im anything against your ladyship's horder—well, 'e come along, my lady, and bolts after the cat. The cat, being very desprate, 'e bolts too, my lady. Into the cook's room they bolted, an' upset the hoil stove! And then," Treble went on, proud at having such an audience, and refusing to notice Lady Bultagate's frantic signs, "and then the room caught afire, the dorg caught the cat, and, in a twinklin' of the heye, took 'is life. An' the flames was so fierce that we could honly recover what you might say was the einders of the dorg."

"I—er—I beg your pardon?" asked the bishop.

"Yah, yah!" murmured the general. "Eh—er—that is, order, order!"

The bishop closed his eyes against any further interruption.

"We have met together in a good cause—a noble cause—the protection of pat animals—"

"Pat who?" asked Mrs. Pinkhampton, giggling.

"Pet animals—ahem!" said the bishop with dignity. "In giving a few opening words I have little to say, though we none of us must forget the—er—genius and enthusiasm of our gracious president, the marchioness. Ahem!" And he opened his eyes, bowed, and smiled at her.

Not An Experiment.

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly trouble, I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't praise it too highly." You need not to be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb, ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles, today. Advertisement.

through the asylum—a sane, agreeable man, save for the one delusion.
The other day he said to me: 'Doctor, I want to talk to you about that patient over yonder. He's been talking to me, and I find he thinks he's a goldfish. I can't see why it wouldn't be easy to cure him of that.
Throw him in the water! Then he'll know whether he's a fish or not.'
'What would you do?' I asked, 'with a man that thinks he's a teapot?'

Jewel Thief's Clever Idea.
A noted jewel thief was in the hams of boldly entering hotels in the West end of London, carrying under his arms a small parcel containing a soft cheese. Quickly marching upstairs, he would enter the rooms that were not at the time being occupied, pilfer any articles of jewelry that were lying about on the dressing tables, bury them in the cheese, and return the way he had come. In this manner he appropriated no less than £6,000 worth of jewels within twelve months.

Come then be-neath the star-light, Trust him who here im-plies thee,
Dann ret-te Dich in's Frei - e, dann wirf Dich an die Brust mir, Fly thro' the summer gloaming, Thy lover's arm for guide, thy lov'er's arm for guide....

dann flie-he mit dem Liebsten ver trauch durch die Nacht, ver trauch durch die Nacht....

Look, Maid-en, from thy case-ment, Come, Maid-en, from thy case-ment, Come,
Komm', Mad-chen an Dein Fen-ster, komm', Mad-chen an Dein Fen-ster, komm,

NEGRO MAN

Held On Two Felony Charges On Same Day.

Dean Henry Merriweather, a negro, was arrested Thursday on a warrant sworn out by the wife of Flem McReynolds, for an attempted assault on her March 21. When taken into custody he was fully identified and also had on a hat with a red band containing the words, "Are you jealous?" This band was described by the little son of Mr. Mr. George J. Jake, who was mistreated by a negro the same day the McReynolds woman was attacked. The little boy is still sick from his experience and has not seen Merriweather, but he is believed to be the same negro. He is held for felony.

Resolutions of Respect,

Hall of Church Hill Grange.

It was the will of the all wise Father to call from our midst Brother M. B. King, who departed this life March 21, 1914. He has gone but the memory of his bright, beautiful life and the many generous noble deeds that followed him, will long remain with us. Brother King was born in Brunswick county, Va., July 2, 1849, came to Kentucky Jan. 1870. In the fall of that year he joined the Methodist church at Hennion. Two years later he joined the Masonic Lodge at Pee Dee.

In 1875 he married Miss Eoline Harris Anderson, sister of E. H. and Dr. E. A. Anderson.

They had two sons, T. A. and M. E. King, and one daughter, Carrie, who married Mr. Ashton Doyle, of Va. She died May 21, 1903. On Jan. 7, following the death of Carrie, her mother died. On Nov. 23, 1905, he married Miss Belle Henry, daughter of Winston Henry, who with his two sons, survives him.

Resolved—That in the passing of Bro. King, this grange has lost an earnest, energetic and willing worker. He was a charter member, and for a number of years was their honored secretary. A member who was ever willing to take any position and perform any duty, considering only "the good of the order." The members have lost a wise counsellor and a true friend.

The community an honored, patriotic citizens, and while we deplore the loss of Brother King, we meekly bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

That we tender our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family and earnestly implore His blessings on them in their sorrow.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be inserted in our minutes, and a copy be furnished the Hopkinsville papers for publication.

Two timely views of this store for men

The Style View

We have selected from the leading styles of the leading makers because we know your wants—some of you wish a touch of the extreme—some the more conservative.

We know that good style exists in both extreme and conservative, and we have brought it here for you.

You are to judge how well we have served you—we want you to look at the new Spring Styles—buy or not, as you please.

The Business View

You buy and continue to buy where you receive the largest degree of value—we are thinking of the broad definition of the word "value"—cost-value, service-value and satisfaction-value, all combined.

This store aims to serve you in this broad-value-way and the early season buyer derives most from service and satisfaction. This more than offsets the saving in buying late season pickups. Why be uncomfortable for two or three months.

Of An Attorneyship With Headquarters at Chattanooga.

Hon. John C. Duffy has declined an appointment tendered him by Senator Ollie James for a position as attorney to the Interstate Commerce Commission at a salary of $2,500 a year. The place requires headquarters to be maintained at Chattanooga and Mr. Duffy decided to remain in Hopkinsville. He still has under advisement the matter of entering the Congressional race.

Judge Knight has appointed J. T. Watson as constable in the Third Magisterial district. He presented a petition signed by a large number of voters.

He—What made the minister so disturbed when he began his sermon?

She—Why, the hymn, of course. It was: "Christians, seek not yet repose."

That choirmaster possesses the spirit of humor without doubt, for the hymn before the offertory was:

"It is ordained in God's decree That man from all he hath must part."—The Smart Set.

Fourteenth Freed.

The fourteenth woman in two years to be acquitted in Chicago for murdering a man was freed there when Judge Kersten took from a jury the case of Miss Maude Oberg, accused of murdering Edward Bresch. Bresch was stabbed to death by the woman December 25, 1913, during a fight.

HUERTA'S MESSAGE

Tells Mexican Congress He Seeks Peace for Country.

Mexico City, April 1.—"Before leaving these precincts I must engrave upon your hearts that it is my purpose, as I have said before to the national congress, to achieve the peace of the country and, if to do so, your sacrifice and mine shall be indispensable, you and I will know how to sacrifice ourselves. This is my purpose or, what is the same thing, my profession of political faith."

With this statement, President Huerta ended his message to congress, which convened today. The document otherwise was devoid of sensational statements or dramatic affect. Throughout the reading neither members nor those in the gallery interrupted with applause. Just before his closing words the president paused and surveyed the house, which became unusually silent. He pointed his finger as he impressed on the congress his "profession of political faith." Then came applause with cries of "viva Huerta!"

NEW FISH HAS LONG NAME

Recently Discovered Species Takes Nomenclature From the Reigning Family of Monaco.

"Grimaldichthys profundissimus" is the name of a newly discovered species of fish found in the Atlantic by the prince of Monaco, whose passion for oceanography is well known," said John Daly of Chicago at the Raleigh.

The fish was named in honor of the reigning family of Monaco. The depth at which it was found is several hundreds lower than the lowest depths hitherto explored, and tends to prove the existence of other unknown races and species of deep-sea monsters at depths which have never been sounded.

The Grimaldichthys profundissimus is very heavy about the head, but the body diminishes rapidly in size toward the tail. It is covered with a peculiar form of scales imbedded in the skin. The head is round and soft, with the appearance of having been flattened underneath.

The eyes are extremely small, but visible, and the teeth are numerous and small. The fish is very pale, and almost without color except for a grayish-violet tinge in certain parts of the head and underneath the body. The inside of the mouth is a dark violet, almost black.

"One of the important points of the discovery is to show that even the great depths of the sea are lighted by a feeble and diffuse light."—Washington Post.

OWE DEBT TO BIRCH CANOE

Its Use in Development of Country Has Been of the Most Real Value Imaginable.

It is difficult to estimate the value of the birch-bark canoe in the discovery, exploration, development and settlement of the northern part of the continent from the Arctic circle to the great lakes southward, says the Christian Herald.

For a century and a half the birch canoe threading its way through the lakes and rivers carried civilization where no other boat could go. The birch tree has uses now from church pews to kitchen tables, and from organ pipes and musical instruments to newel posts. It furnishes cradles for the young and coffins for the dead.

Eleven thousand cords of the wood go to New England each year to be made into shoe pegs and shanks. Forty-five million board feet of the wood is put on the market each year. Paper birch is one of the few American species with a hold on the forest stronger than it had when the continent was discovered. It comes in after a forest fire and it has taken possession of enough land to cover hundreds of square miles.

WILLING YOUR FEET WARM.

Now that winter has really begun the problem of cold feet at night becomes unpleasantly provocative. To many people hot water bottles are an abomination—they are to me. But have you ever tried "willing" your feet warm when you get into bed? A man told me the other day that he concentrated his mind, as it were, on his feet, and willed them warm. Presently there was a sensation of tingling in his calves, and then his meels begin to glow. The last night or two I have tried this method, with some success. When I get more accustomed to it I hope to succeed perfectly. And there is this advantage about it, while you are willing your feet warm you can't be worrying about anything else. It's a great idea.—London Chronicle.

MUST BE EXPERT DANCERS.

Dancing at the German court is always a matter to be taken seriously. The kaiser is himself an expert dancer, and will have only experts at the state balls. At all these functions the court dancing master occupies a place of vantage from which he can watch the dancers and any mistakes or clumsiness will be certain to bring the delinquent a polite intimation that he must mend his steps or expect no further invitations.

A MANAGER'S WOES.

"Why do you always take your vacation in Afghanistan?"

"In Afghanistan," replied the theatrical manager, "only about ten per cent. of the population are able to read and write."

"What has that to do with your vacation?"

"Reduces the number of plays I have to glance over just 90 per cent."

—Kansas City Journal.

MADE HIM GIVE UP THE GAME

Caddie's Unfeeling Remarks Too Much for Tender Feelings of Dear Old Gentleman.

A dear old gentleman, who had only taken up the dear game very late in life, spent some months endeavoring under the tuition of a professional and the care of a special caddie, to hit the ball. When he succeeded in doing so at all it was never more than a few yards, and every bunker on the course was his daily doom. Still his caddie, having an eye to the main chance, always encouraged him to think that he would soon be more a player, and the old man, with the hope that springs eternal even more in the hearts of golfers than in other people, firmly believed him. One day it happened that his special caddie was absent, and a ruffianly looking person appeared on the first tee with the old gentleman's clubs. He took his normal 14 shots to the first hole, to the unconcealed but unnoticed disgust of the caddie; but on the second tee the miracle happened, and the old boy for once hit a beauty.

"That was a good one, wasn't it?" he asked, turning to the bearer of clubs.

"Good one?" retorted the ruffian, in tones of the bitterest contempt. "Why, I could play better than that with my left foot!"

This unexpected verdict so upset the poor old man that he walked straight back home, and has never touched a club since.

RANK HIGH IN SCHOLARSHIP

That Athletes Are Poor Students Is Denied by Former Professor in an Eastern College.

"That athletics are practiced in most colleges do not detract the attention of students from scholastic duties is abundantly testified to by college professors," remarked Dr. James Hineman, a former professor in one of the eastern colleges. Dr. Brinker, the president of Lehigh University, declared that Lehigh football squad had averaged higher in scholastic standing than the students who did not participate in college athletics. Lehigh is not the only college in which this fact has been marked. Cornell for several years—and I have no doubt that it continues to show it—had football and baseball teams the members of which led their classes.

"Formerly controlled athletics are as necessary to successful mental training as are professors. I presume there have been instances where members of college teams have failed in their examinations, and charges follow, as a matter of course, that these men are not genuine students. But the facts are so pronounced that the best men on the leading athletic teams in our greatest colleges are men of big mentality that the suggestion that colleges have to hire athletes fails in its beginning."

Woman's Work.

According to the last volume of the British census returns in the United Kingdom women have succeeded in establishing themselves in a number of industries where their presence is unexpected.

Several women are paper-hangers and whitewashers, and four are bricklayers—all of them widows. There is only one woman coachman. Three women appear under the heading of "clergymen, priests and ministers," and four are coalheavers.

Then there are 347 women "carmen" and wagoners, and 231 women blacksmiths and "strikers."

One woman occupies herself with making patent fuel, and there are three women shipwrights, and five women "tramway car makers."

Finally, England and Wales can boast of 56 women carpenters and joiners, and 14 women masons. Of the latter 13 are widows.

What Interested Her.

Little Myrtle, the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Cargetts of the Salvation Army, was apparently intensely interested in a sermon by Col. Samuel Brengle, for many years a friend of the late Gen. William Booth, at Salvation Army headquarters, in West Fourteenth street. Her parents highly approved of this reverent attitude.

"You were greatly impressed by Col. Brengle's speech, were you not, my dear?" said her proud parent after the meeting.

"Yes, papa," she answered enthusiastically. "I was wondering all the time he was talking how far his chin sank into his whiskers."

Colonel Brengle is blessed with a particularly impressive hirsute adornment.—New York Tribune.

London's Modern Fire Brigade.

The London fire brigade is rapidly becoming a completely motor-equipped fire fighting organization. Today London possesses 97 motor appliances and two motor fire floats. It is now proposed to spend in the near future $500,000 in providing 53 motor escape vans, 43 electric escape vans, 94 petrol or petrol electric motor pumps, 27 motor turntable ladders, 11 motor lorries, 5 motor ladders, 15 motor cars, and a motor canteen van, or 249 new motor appliances. In three years horses will be unknown in the London fire brigade.

It's Best Anyway.

"I'm an optimist," said ex-Governor Sulzer at a banquet in New York. "I was an optimist before my impeachment. Then I lost my optimism temporarily."

"An optimist," the ex-governor added, dreamily, "is a chap who doesn't know what's coming to him."

FLOWERS USED AS EMBLEMS

Have Been Distinguishing Mark of Faculties as Long as There Is Record.

The determination of the "loyal" Ulster men to induce every man, woman and child to wear a flower as a token of their aversion to home rule reminds one how often flowers have been used as emblems.

Since the leaders of the Yorkist and Lancastrian parties each plucked a rose in the Temple gardens, the Lancastrian a red and the Yorkist a white, this flower has been a popular emblem. Apart from the fact that red roses are symbolic of love and white of purity, the English national emblem is the rose; the Legitimist party of France formed the League of the Rose in imitation of England's Primrose league, while owing to Gladstone's fondness for white roses many liberals once wished to make them an emblem for their party, but the idea was not adopted.

The primrose, it is said, was Beaconsfield's favorite flower, and has been chosen by his followers, who formed the Primrose league, as an emblem, while in France, the violet, because of its purple hue, was worn by imperialists as an informal token of their loyalty to the Bonapartes. When the son of the ex-Empress Eugenie was brought home to be buried after being killed in the Zulu campaign, his body was almost covered in violets.

Then, again, there are favorite national emblems. There are the lilies of France, the thistle for Scotland, the shamrock for Ireland, the leek for Wales, and the maple leaf for Canada. The United States has no national flower and probably never will, owing to its wide range of climate, which makes the selection of a flower of universal popularity almost impossible.

QUESTION RIGHT TO SWORD

Historic Relic Now in Possession of University of Pennsylvania Has Evoked Discussion.

The gold sword that Louis XVI presented to John Paul Jones in recognition of the fight he made with the Bon Homme Richard against the Serapis has been presented to the University of Pennsylvania by Edward C. Dale, son of the late Richard C. Dale, a former president of the Society of Cincinnati. The sword has been in the possession of the Dale family for more than a century.

This is the sword which Charles Henry Hart, a local historian, declares now should be in possession of Admiral Dewey. It had been generally accepted that the sword passed by will of Commodore Jones to Commodore Dale, a forbear of Richard C. Dale. Mr. Hart denied this. He declares that the sword was in possession of John Paul Jones when he died in Paris, in 1792, and that Jane Taylor of Dumfries, Scotland, a sister of Jones, went to Paris and took possession of everything left by the sea fighter. Later the sword was sent to Robert Morris.

According to Mr. Hart Mr. Morris later presented the sword to Commodore John Barry, senior officer of the American navy in 1795, but that the presentation was only a life legacy, and that it should have been handed down to Barry's successor as senior officer, eventually reaching the possession of Admiral Dewey.—Philadelphia Press.

Then there seems to be two tangos. One is the tango which comes to us from the Argentine republic—a dance for experts—a slow, difficult thing that is not worth doing at all unless one can do it very well, indeed. The other tango is any new dance—the Castle walk, the hesitation waltz, or anything our fathers did not dance. This latter is the popular tango danced all over the country. It is the one at which the people who do not care about dancing continually thunder. It is not the tango at all. The tango is a myth, and they are knocking the daylights out of it every day.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The Only Way.

Mrs. Pankhurst, as the Majestic sailed from New York, talked to a reporter about the comparative deceitfulness of men and women.

"Women," said the reporter, "are the more deceitful."

"No," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "men are the worse. Look at the way they deceive their wives."

"Do you claim," the reporter asked, "that men should never deceive their wives?"

Mrs. Pankhurst smiled and tossed her head.

"Oh, no," she said. "How could the average man ever get a wife if he didn't deceive her?"

Cigars in France 100 Years.

A French contemporary recalls the fact that an opportunity for celebrating a centenary was lost last year. It was in 1813 that cigars were first introduced into France, although the Spaniards, who borrowed the custom from the Mexicans, who in turn had learned it from the American Indians, had practiced this form of smoking many years previously. It is interesting to note that the first definition of the cigar, in the dictionary of the Academie Francaise, described it as "a little roll of tobacco leaves, which is smoked like a pipe."

Wood's Laxative Mineral Water.

Well Recently Bored 137 Feet Deep, Situated One Mile West of Hopkinsville.

ANALYSIS OF WATER.

By Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky. One gallon contains 323.6 grains of solid matter (553 grams per liter) composed mainly of sodium chloride (common salt), sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt,) with small amount of calcium sulphur, calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate and sodium sulphide. Hydrogen sulphide free and combined is present to the extent of 50 grains per gallon. There are traces of sodium iodide and sodium bromide, iron, silica, potassium and lithium salts. There is a salt-sulphur water and would doubtless have a laxative effect in addition to the other properties of a sulphur water.

ELEVEN NIGHTS IN SNOW

Remarkable Fortitude Recently Shown by a Horse in the State of Maine.

A remarkable instance of animal fortitude is the case of a horse owned by a resident of South Berwick, Me., that was found alive after being lost for eleven days in a big snowstorm.

The animal, says the Philadelphia inquirer, had been driven to Great Falls, N. Y., and the parties started on home about midnight, but they got tipped out of the sleigh and the horse ran off. For eleven nights no trace of him could be found and it was supposed he had died in the storm somewhere. On the twelfth day a hunter found the horse in a snowdrift on a crossroad between South Berwick and Dover.

The reins and sleigh were frozen so solidly into the snow that the horse could not extricate himself.
The hunter, seeing the animal alive, drew near to the poor beast and cut him loose, at which he manifested the greatest pleasure and slowly followed his deliverer to Dover.

How the animal lived through the storm and cold and hunger is certainly a wonder. The hunter, however, says the horse lived on the elder bushes near him. He also asserts that since the check rein prevented the horse from eating snow, he would put his foot down into the drift and then hold it up and lap off the snow.

The contrast when the horse was placed beside his mate in the stable was a painful one. The animal's mouth was very sore from eating twigs and bushes and his general haggard appearance was suggestive of Quixote's angular steed of ancient fiction.

AS A MAN THINKS.

"Men imagine that thought can be kept secret, but it cannot; it rapidly crystallizes into habit, and habit solidifies into circumstances. Man is a growth by law, and not by creation by artifice, and cause and effect is as absolute and undeviating in the hidden realm of thought as in the world of visible and material things. And again he says: 'A man is literally what he thinks, his character being the complete sum of all his thoughts.'

"As within, so without—always and inevitably. A thoroughly scientific foundation, we will find as we go deeply enough, underlies the statement: As a man thinketh in his heart so is he. There is nothing by way of habit, character, even achievement that can get into a man's or a woman's life except through the avenue of his or her mental life.
Search as carefully and as critically as we will, we will find no exceptions to this rule."—James Allen.

RESTORING FROZEN PLANTS.

If by chance the baby ramblers in their pots should freeze, restoration is easy and sure simply by thaking them out in perfect darkness—abs-ray of light to penetrate the darkness, until the weather moderates and the plant gradually thaws, and there will be no sign of its ever having been frozen.—Good Housekeep-

LEAVE RING WITH FORTUNES

Spanish Bull Fighters Make Immense Sums Catering to Pleasures of the Populace.

Bombita, the famous Spanish bullfighter, is retiring from the ring.
Though only thirty-four, he has been fighting since he was nineteen, and has killed in all 3,000 bulls. When he gave his last fight, at Madrid, he had made over $600,000.

The average fee for a fight is $1,250 for a famous torero. As Bombita took place in 65 fights a year his income, since he became the idol of Spain, has been over $90,000 a year!
As a matter of fact, presents, special fees, and so on have brought Bom-bita's annual income up to $250,000 during the last few years. If it were not that a matador spends as freely as he earns, Bombita's fortune would have amounted to far more than $600, 000.

The 20 most famous bull-fighters in Spain earn between them $1,000,000 a year. When a bull fighter visits a theater he is given the best box in the house. He is provided with the most expensive and luxurious suite of rooms in the leading hotel in the town.
In fact, he is treated like a king, and greeted everywhere as a great celebrity.

Bull fighters begin as chulos, the
men who wave red cloths to madden
the bull. When qualified they become banderilleros and stick darts into the bull. Finally they become matadors, like Bombita.

Antonio Fuentes, who retired in 1908, figured in about 800 bull fights, and made a fortune of $1,000,000. Rafael Guerra, generally known as Guerita, who killed 3,000 bulls, retired a year later with a snug little fortune of $3,000,000, all made out of bull fighting! Mazzantini, one of the most famous of all bullfighters, left the ring in 1909. During his career of 25 years he killed more than 3,500 bulls.

Bull fighters begin as chulos, the
men who wave red cloths to madden

EFFICIENCY IN "NEWS STYLE"

Columns of the Modern Journal Contain, It is Claimed, the Best of English Phrasing.

It is seldom that a good word is said in academic circles for what is termed "newspaper English," meaning the terse, trenchant style in which the best journalists are in the habit of expressing themselves. The College of Journalism, however, recognizes the value of this style, and Prof. F. W.
Beekman, a well-known educators,

says:

"With all its faults I still believe in the news style as the most efficient style of this modern day of presenting information through the written word.
It has been hammered out in the heat and stress of newspaper work to meet the demands of the millions for something to compel their attention, interest them and give them information in the quickest, clearest way possible."

There is much truth in this, but not all the truth. So-called "newspaper

LOOPS THE LOOP.

DeLloyd Thompson Courts Death
In an Aeroplane.

DeLloyd Thompson, the young aviator who operated C. O. Prowse's biplane in this city in the summer of 1912, has accomplished the feat of looping the loop, not once but four times, at Los Angeles. He used a baby Day-tractor machine, like the one he used here on his return visit last fall. Thompson is a daring and cool-headed aviator, but he is not showing much good judgment in attempting the foolish stunts that have caused so many aviators to lose their lives. He took the editor of the Kentuckian up on one of his flights here. He is too fine a fellow to throw his life away.

FIVE HOTELS DESTROYED

In The Heart of St. Augustine Florida, In The Night.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 3.—Flames that swept through two long blocks in the heart of St. Augustine along the bay shore early yesterday destroyed five tourist hotels, a theatre, the courthouse and a number of residences, with an estimated loss of $500,000 to $750,000.

There was no life loss, but numbers of guests in the hotels were forced to flee scantly clad into the streets, while others were carried down ladders by firemen and volunteers.

The hotels destroyed were the Florida House, Munson House, Clairmont Hotel, Central Hotel and Atlantic House. The Genovar Opera House, the Power Boat Clubhouse, nine residences and several cottages were burned. The Vedder House, one of the oldest buildings on the continent, containing priceless relics of the Spanish period, was completely destroyed.

A Tribute to The Memory of Mrs. John M. Butler.

Since our Heavenly Father has seen fit to call from our Woman's Missionary Society, one of our most faithful members, we desire to record to her memory, this tribute of love and deepest sorrow. On March 18th, 1914, at her late residence, near Oak Grove, Ky., the spirit of Mrs. John M. Butler returned to the God who gave it. Thus in the morning of life has passed away one of the noblest of women. We mourn her early home-going, yet we bow in humble submission to God's will.

Her home has lost a devoted wife and mother, her church and society an earnest, consecrated worker, and her neighborhood a true and loyal friend. Medical skill and tender care failed to restore her to health, so after seeing clearly the approaching end, she entered upon that rest which remaineth to the people of God. There was not a cloud in her spiritual sky.

Her intelligence, gentle, lovable and bright disposition won for her a host of friends. And her pure and exalted character was a model for emulation among those who knew her.

She was a soul of generosity, modest, yet every ready to respond to the call of duty. She bore her suffering with fortitude and resignation possessed by the Saints of the Lord.

To the broken-hearted husband and children, and the entire grief-stricken family, we tender our deepest sympathy, and point them to her God, who alone can comfort.
